A Dream

By Edgar Allan Poe
1827

In visions of the dark night
I have dreamed of joy departed-
But a walking dream of life and light
Hath left me broken-hearted.

Ah! what is not a dream by day
To him whose eyes are cast
On things around him with a ray
Turned back upon the past?

That holy dream-that holy dream,
While all the world were chiding,
Hath cheered me as a lovely beam
A lonely spirit guiding.

What thought that light, thro' storm and night,
So trembled from afar-
What could there be more purely bright
In Truth's day-star?

Heidi Cuka and Tracy Fousek have a friendship like those in dreams.

The Future Belongs to Those Who

"The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams." This saying has meaning for everyone. One meaning that it has is that no matter what you want to be you will succeed in life by trying. If you want to be a mechanic or a doctor, you can fulfill your dreams by working hard to become the best mechanic or doctor.

Not everyone wants to be a scientist or a psychologist, they want to work in a field that makes them happy. Students feel pressured by teachers, parents, counselors and themselves to be in professions that have nothing to do with their dreams. All you have to do in life is work hard to fulfill your dreams by doing the things that make you happy. Being successful means different things to different people, but the most successful people are the ones who are true to their dreams. It's true that, the future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams.

ADMINISTRATION

The administration works together to make the school run as smooth as possible. Vernal Anderson is the head of the administration. Marlene Stone takes care of the school's finances. Neil Goter is in charge of coordinating the curriculum, handling the discipline issues, and evaluating the teachers. Steve Petry shares duties with Neil Goter. Mr. Petry mainly deals with junior high. The school board members were Jan Coleman, Joe Hall, Mike Denker, Jim Eggers, Neil Von Eschen, Wayne Scherr, and Jerry Seiner. The school board made decisions that affected the entire school, like policies and school funds.

Support Staff

The janitors, cooks, bus drivers, and secretaries did a great job this year keeping the school clean, making the meals, transporting the students to and from school, and keeping things organized in the office.

The cooks did a great job preparing meals and keeping the students fed. They served both breakfast and lunch.

This was Stacy Greger's first year complete year as a full time secretary in the high school office. Janet Lhotak helps out in the office completing tasks such as answering the phone and running off papers. Rosie Koupal and Mary Koupal are the business secretaries who are located in the business office in the new addition. Marilyn Zylstra continues to serve as the elementary secretary.

The janitorial staff has once again done a fantastic job of keeping the school look clean and functioning.

Janitors are Dale Carda, Bonnie Carda, Bonnie Soukup, Stan Swatek, and Dale Drews.

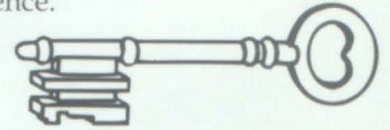

Teachers Hold Key to the Future

Wagner Community School's faculty and staff prepared and enabled the students to face the future by enhancing their minds and teaching them responsibilities. The teachers helped students find the key to their futures. Each year the teachers look forward to a new group of students. The students provide new minds and talents for the teachers to encourage, as the students prepare for the future.

The school year brought several new faces to the faculty. Ms. Rebecca Holzbauer came to us from Marty to teach science. Bon Homme lost Mr. & Mrs. Morrell to our school. Mr. Morrell is, also, teaching science, while Mrs. Morrell is teaching in the English language arts area. Connie Bromley, a first year teacher, taught in the special education area. Mrs. Betsy Koenig found a new challenge as she moved from elementary computers to high school computers and eighth grade science.

Finally Freshmen!

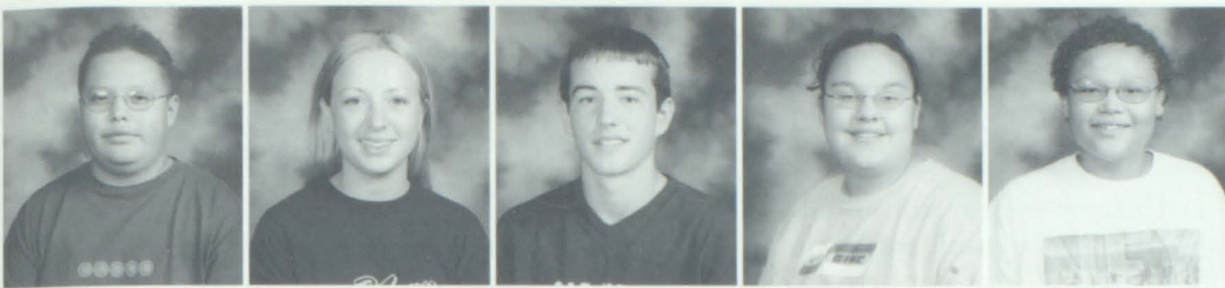

The class of 2005 made it to high school at last! They worked hard this year with all of the sports and classes they have. Everyone worked hard to pass Speech because there was a lot of writing and talking involved.

Homecoming was a fun filled adventure for the freshmen. Some of the freshmen boys dressed up as cheerleaders and cheered at one of the girls' basketball games. Some of the things that the seniors encouraged the freshmen to do were: pass a hot dog from mouth to mouth, wear diapers during the week, and bark like dogs. The freshmen will have many other good times before they graduate.

Freshmen class officers are Jillian Krcil (Secretary/Treasurer), Matthew Hill (President), Jared Carda (Vice-President).

CLASS OF 2004

The sophomores kicked off another year with a blast. They elected Amber Alderink as their president, Jamie Soukup as their vice-president, and Erik Cimpl as their secretary.

They took a trip to Marty for the new sophomore Career Days. Some of the students were interested in the different career opportunities there were for them to checkout. Others were more interested in the collage and university representatives.

Most of the sophomores took accounting and said that the class was hard but they passed. Accounting became a required class this , meaning that all of the sophomores must take and pass it.

The sophomores looked forward to becoming juniors and seniors.

President Amber Alderink, Vice President Jamie Soukup, and Secretary/Treasurer Erik served as officers of the sophomore class.

Juniors at Last

The junior class officers are Rachel Doom, secretary/treasurer; Michele Koupal, president; and Stephanie Nedved, vice president.

The juniors have been very busy this year. They had to work at the concession stands, design the prom, take tests (including the ACT), write a term paper, and prepare a debate. Some juniors who took Advanced Biology had fun dissecting cats, while others took Chemistry and had fun doing experiments. These are just a few of the many things the junior class accomplished.

One thing the junior class is looking forward to next year is having senior privileges. The junior class has made many memories together and they will make many more in the future.

Josh Sonnenburg, Michele Koupal, Nick Bubak and Mike Dvoracek gear up for their next class.

Class of 2002

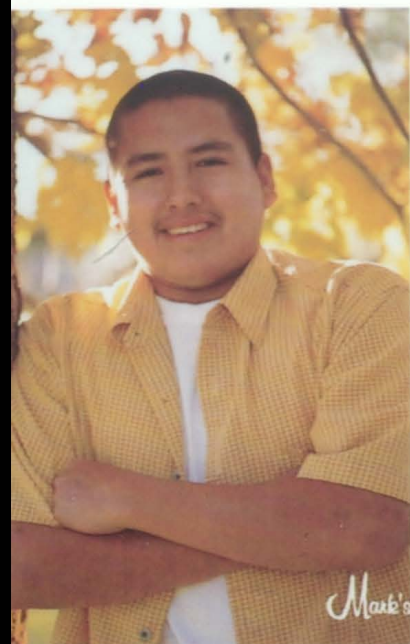

This year the seniors had a shorted summer when they began their last year of high school before Labor Day. Shortly after school started they were allowed to have open study hall, open lunch hour, and a senior commons area. The seniors came into this year thinking it would go by fast without any problems. They came to find the true meaning in a quote by Albert Einstein, "In the middle of difficulty lies opportunity." They found themselves working on scholarship and college applications while trying to keep up with the homework. They were preparing themselves for next year.

They also got caught up in all the activities that went on. The first big event was homecoming week. Throughout the week the seniors participated in initiating the freshmen. On Thursday night Nicole Krcil and Scott Seiner were crowned Queen and King. Other candidates were John Holzbauer, Gavin Weber, Tracy Fousek, and Melanie Villmow.

February brought the last class trip when the seniors went to Pierre for their Government class. In April, some seniors were given the opportunity to take a vacation to Canada for the Junior/Senior music trip.

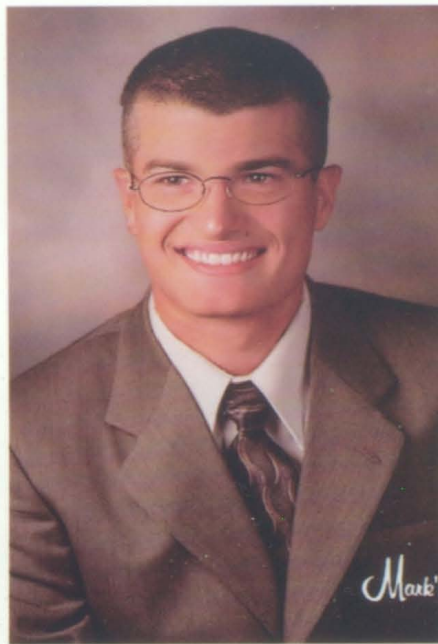

After all the hard work the seniors put into the year, it finally paid off. The class of 2002 took the final steps of their high school carriers. Graduation closed one door in their lives, but opened another full of opportunity.

Annual Staff

The annual staff worked the entire year trying to get the best pictures, sell annuals, collect information for stories and put the pages together. The adviser for the project was Janice Twitero with assistance from the Planning Committee and other members of the staff. Mrs. Twitero explained to everyone how to do their pages and supervised the work in progress. Mrs. Twitero has served as annual adviser since 1985.

When students purchased their annuals, they had to make a few decisions. They decided if they wanted their name imprinted on the cover, did they want logos, or "World Beat" (an eight-page document highlighting the events and people of the year). Then while most of the student body sat back and waited for the end product, the annual staff went to work.

Savannah Breen and Connie Stevens check out the offerings, while Matthew Ishmael makes the first purchase of a 2002 yearbook from Cari Uecker and Nicole Krcil.

The "Raider Report"

The "Raider Report" has been in existence for a large number of years. It has been very successful at the Wagner Community School. Each month, the "Raider Report" has different news articles about school events and extracurricular activities accompanied by horoscopes, the school calendar for the month and many items of interest to the student body.

The staff members signed up for the events that they wanted to cover for the paper each month. The members usually tried to go undercover to find the most interesting and unusual things that happened during the month. The pictures that were put in the paper were taken by the staff members. The members often took pictures of the student body having fun and learning things in classes. Theresa Koupal has served as advisor for the "Raider Report" for many years. Everyone looks forward to many more editions of the "Raider Report".

Working Hard In Chorus

All of the hard work of selling magazines, calenders, raffle tickets and working at the craft fairs paid off for the juniors and seniors. They were rewarded with a trip to Winnipeg, Canada. On April 24th, they boarded a bus to Canada. They enjoyed the many sights the area had to offer and returned the evening of April 28th.

Students getting I rating at contest were Katie Swatek-solo, Christa Hahn-solo and duet, Robin Kisely-solo and duet, Amber Alderink-solo, senior girls group, and the girls large group. It took a lot of extra time and practice to get a superior at contest.

Jillian Jaeger, Amber Alderink, Shelby Melton and Dustin McAdaragh went to Aberdeen for All-State. All-State participants consisted of the best soprano, alto, tenor and bass from every school in the state. These students practiced together and then presented a concert. Every year some schools are chosen to be tested on their music, therefore all participants must be well prepared.

Band Loses Experienced Seniors, Gains Eager Freshmen

The bands' busy year began with the Labor Day Parade. Despite dwindling numbers, they sounded great and looked better than ever. Following Labor Day, the band prepared for and took part in the Region and Wayne State Festivals. The Christmas Concert followed with performances by the Jazz and Concert Bands. In November, Mary Jo Nedved tried out for the all-state band.

February and March proved to be busy months finding Wagner hosting the annual Jazz Festival and the Area Wide Band Festival. March also brought the Region band contest with all ensembles attending receiving a superior and several solos receiving a superior. The Brass ensemble consisted of Matt Koupal, Liz Pravecek, Matt Ishmael, Shane Melton, Jillian Jaeger, Kim Leibel, Zachary Hare, and Robin Kisely.

Mary Jo Nedved and Stephanie Nedved received superior on their solos, while Carrie Crisman, Carmen Soulek, Jill Denker, Robin Kisely, and Megan Kinney received excellent.

There were Jazz Band "gigs" which took them to several different area events. This was the first year that Jazz Band was offered for credit.

Another change was in the pep band which met every SRB, Student Responsibility Block, to practice and ended up playing for over twenty games and events. The members' hard work was rewarded with a trip to Valley Fair in Minnesota at the end of the year.

Student Council 2001-2002

Student council kept busy with various activities. They had a fun and exciting year. They had meetings every month to plan and organize many different kinds of events.

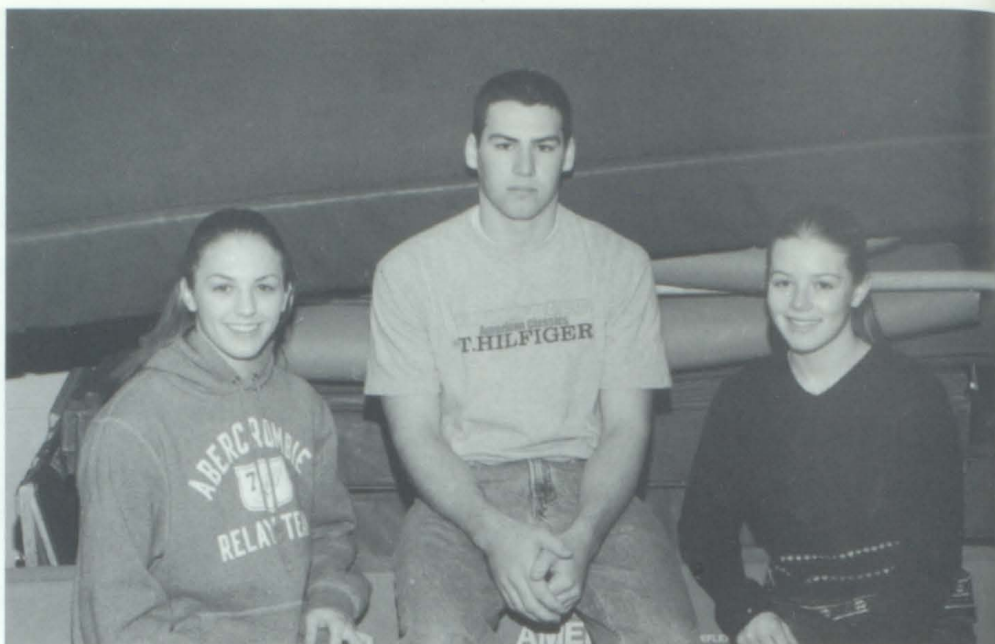

They organized an eventful homecoming week having days such as PJ Day, Hippie Day, Twin Day, Hillbilly Day, and the traditional Red & White Day. They also reenacted the TV show, Survivor, by having teachers do different kinds of tasks; Mrs. Kuca was the winner.

This fall, the student council took time to clean their road ditch by Wagner Lake. They also helped plan the activities for the Christmas party. They passed out the refreshments during the party as well.

The student council brought back an old Wagner tradition by having a Snow Ball dance. The students put their names in drawing to become the king and queen. Andrew Nordquist and Stephanie Carda were chosen. A drawing for door prizes was held during the dance.

The Student Council State Convention was held during the spring. Members that attended the event were Scott Robertson, Mateya Kuhlman, Casey Nickels and Crystal Dvoracek. They learned about new ideas on how to improve the local student council.

Student council also held another Spring Fling. This included another dance and other activities that were similar to homecoming like Hush Day.

The Snow Ball king and queen were Freshman Stephanie Carda and Junior Andrew Nordquist.

National Honor Society 2001- 2002

Although the year was busy, National Honor Society was still able to meet once or twice a month to plan activities. National Honor Society increased its membership when many juniors and seniors joined. The local group had the largest membership in its recorded history.

A traditional event of National Honor Society was the teacher exchange. Members of National Honor Society went and taught a class for a teacher. Some taught high school and some taught elementary. Some learned what it is like when the teacher is trying to teach and students are talking. They now have more respect for teachers.

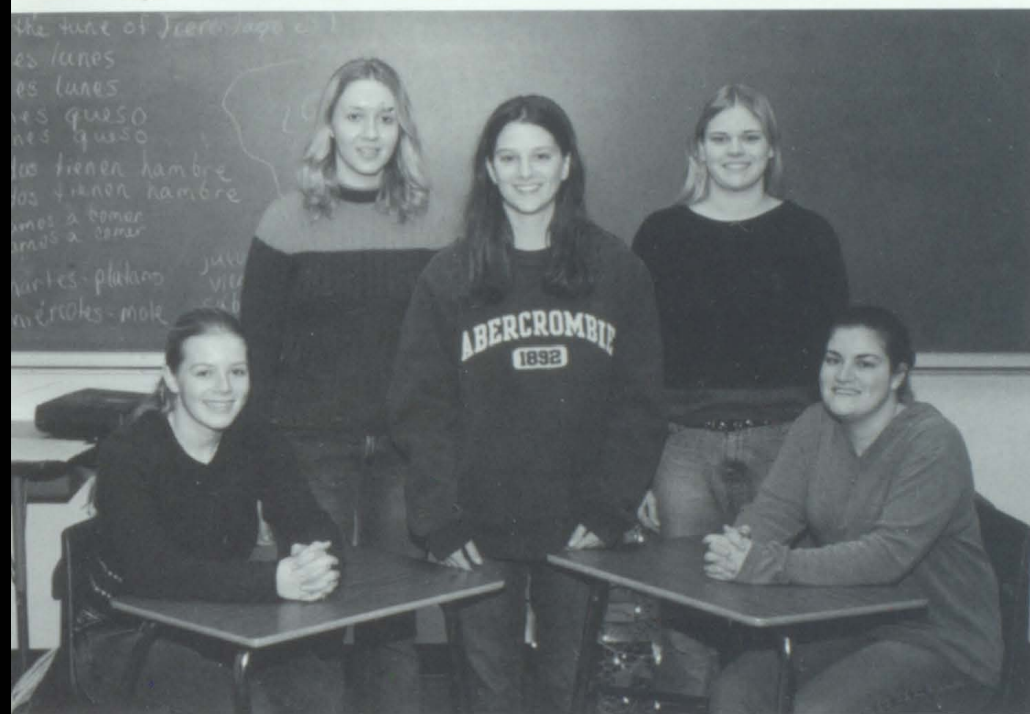

At the beginning of the year, National Honor Society planned an honor roll dessert for all the students who made the honor roll. The dessert consisted of ice cream and goodies. Many people enjoyed the treat during Student Responsibility Block as a reward for all their hard work to get on the honor roll.

National Honor Society also had a clothing drive. Each member went through their clothing at home and bought in many bags of clothing. The turnout was good.

During the Christmas season, National Honor Society sold Christmas items to raise money. The money they earned went toward their trip at the end of the year.

Honor Society members helped at the Wagner Quiz Bowl Competition by timing and keeping score.

On April 26, 2002, Wagner Community School had the privilege of hosting the Regional Special Olympics. Members of the National Honor Society helped keep the track meet running smoothly.

National Honor Society officers are Nicole Krcil-treasurer, Janae Reinbold-reporter, Tresa Scherr-President, Mary Jo Nedved-Vice President, Kim Leibel-Secretary

Oral Interp Team Fairs Well

The oral interpretation team, though not sending anyone to the state competition, did fairly well at the Mt. Marty contest bringing home several awards. Those placing at Mt. Wagner Improv Troupe

The Wagner Improv Troupe started the year with their annual training. The South East Central Co-op troupes from Scotland, Avon, Lake Andes, Marty, and Wagner met to be trained in Improvisational theater. Diane Thaler helped with the training.

The Improv troupe also went to a training session in Sioux Falls called "Clowning for Prevention". They learned the basics of face makeup. They also learned how to perform as clowns and about the different types of clowns. After the training was finished, Wagner held a carnival during parent-teacher conferences. The Improv troupe dressed as clowns and handed out balloons with prevention statements on them.

The elementary students held their prevention week when they decorated grocery bags with prevention pictures. The Improv troupe performed for their awards ceremony.

The Improv troupe, as well as advisor Ericka Kotab, put together many scenes this year including scenes on rumors, lying, bullying, suicide, and discrimination.

The troop had a recruiting meeting for eighth through eleventh grade students. Their goal was to recruit new members.

Leaders in Education and positive Attitude Development Teens Against Tobacco Use

Members of LEAD/TATU were busy this year. The purpose of LEAD/TATU was to promote an alcohol, drug and tobacco-free life-style to students. Members talked to elementary students about the dangers of alcohol, tobacco, and drugs and served role models for the younger students.

One of the groups's first activities was asking Madjoe's to be smoke-free for a week. During the week, customers were asked to fill out a survey. The survey asked them if they preferred a smoke-free restaurant or if they preferred smoking and if they were a smoker or not. After the week, the results showed that the majority preferred the restaurant to be smoke-free. Even smokers preferred to eat in a smoke-free restaurant.

This year, members asked the high school students to sign pledges to be tobacco-free for the entire school year. As a reward for staying tobacco-free, the students were invited to a dance at the end of the year. The dance was on March 22 at the Wagner Armory. There was inflatable games, music by Culture Club, food from Madjoe's and Subway and lots of prizes donated by various companies. The dance was completely free. Nine other schools had their students who had signed pledges at the dance, also. Over two hundred students attended the dance.

A new program started by the group was mentoring. Fifteen students become mentors to third and fourth grade students. As mentors, the high school students helped the kids with homework, played games with them and were their friend. All the mentors enjoyed being a mentor.

Another event put on by the group was a kid's carnival. This carnival, with the help of Culture Club, Improv, and National Honor Society, was to promote an alcohol, tobacco and drug-free life to kids and to encourage parents to attend parent-teacher conferences. Lots of prizes were handed out and many students had a great time.

Culture Club

The Culture Club has existed for twenty-eight years. The purpose of the club was to provide positive group activities that are both educational and fun. The club did activities that students would not be able to do on their own. Why was it a fun idea to belong to Culture Club? The club taught students social, leadership, cooperation, responsibility, planning and decision making skills. These were all very important reasons why students joined the club.

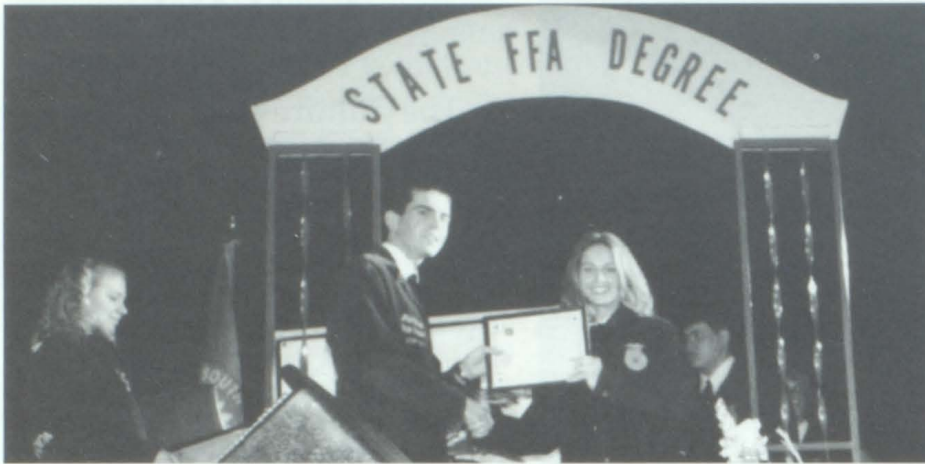

The Culture Club Advisory Board was a group of students elected by other club members. This advisory board decided which activities the members of the club participated in. A person on the board must be an active member in the Club. New board members are chosen each year.

The Club has done many activities this year. The students went to college activities, like a play and a basketball game at USD. The Club held a Christmas party, helped with the elementary carnival, worked at the Good Samaritan Home Halloween party, sold candy grams, hosted dances, helped the Boys & Girls Club with a pancake feed, and cleaned a two mile road ditch. The students helped the American Cancer Society wrap daffodils and worked the concession stand for a 3-on-3 basketball tournament. The students took an end of the year trip to the Black Hills. The students went rafting on the Niobrara River in Nebraska.

Goodbye Mr. Bich!

After thirty-nine years of teaching, thirty-two of them at Wagner Community School, Mr. Bich said goodbye as he retired. Throughout the years, Mr. Bich has been head boys and girls basketball coach, head girls and boys track coach, cross country, and assistant football coach. He was inducted into the Bon Homme Coaches Wall of Fame.

The new football stadium was named in recognition of all the services given by Mr. Bich and retired Mr. Nedved.

Mr. Bich looks forward to some rather interesting adventures after he retires. These include a marathon in Antarctica, several triathlons, a trip to New Zealand, missionary work, and several other trips with his wife. He also looks forward to spending time with his children and grandchildren.

Mr. Bich will miss his daily routine and the other teachers after he leaves. The thing he will miss the most though, is knowing that he is making a difference in students' lives. Mr. Bich leaves these words of wisdom as he leaves: "Always give a bit more than what is required."

Thank you, Mr. Bich, the students, faculty and everyone connected with Wagner Community School will miss you.

WAGNER HIGH SCHOOL WEIGHT LIFTING CLUBS

The weight lifting clubs for Wagner High School were based on the standards set by Bigger Faster Stronger, which is a program that was instituted this spring. The three different levels that athletes could belong to were the White Club, the Red Club and the Black Club. The standards for entry into any of the three clubs was determined by how much an individual could lift according to their height, weight and body frame size. The first level was the White Club followed by the Red Club and then the Black Club.

There were four core lifts that the athletes had to complete before they could enter any of the clubs. Those lifts were the bench press, parallel squat, dead lift and the power clean. The athletes also had to do an agility "dot drill" in a certain amount of time to finally qualify for the lifting clubs.

Out of the Frying Pan into the Oven

The play cast and crew toiled especially hard on the play Out of the Frying Pan into the Oven. This play is the trial of Gretel Goodietwoshoes (played by Amber Alderink), who is on trial for the murder of Winifred Witch. According to Winnie's granddaughter Matilda McGillicuddy (played by Stephanie Nedved), Winnie was a kind fun loving person, and that Gretel was a good for nothing person who only came to harass her granny. There were several witnesses that said they saw Gretel at the scene of the crime. There were some bones, which belonged to Winnie, found by Ashley N. Soot (played by Tiffany Hrdlicka), she also found a locket with the initials G.G. on it. That locket belonged to none other than Gretel.

The judge, Quinella Q. Questionable (played by Kim Leibel), was very much for the prosecutors who had absolutely no case. On the first night of the play the jury found Gretel not guilty of murder but on the second night she was found guilty. There was no set jury, each night the names of the jury members were drawn a container containing names from the audience. In both endings, the court clerk (played by Rachel Doom) shot and killed the entire defense, just before Gretel was able to say who was the real murder.

The play was fun but also a large amount of work for the cast members. They spent many hours in rehearsal. On both nights, the audiences were very happy with the play. More people came on the first night, with some coming back on the second night to see the other ending.
